DumpFl Studio is a free tool that quickly and easily extracts the frames of a video with a given time stamp from a video file. With DumpFl Studio you can extract time stamps from the video and easily convert them into a simple text file. Designed to extract time stamps from video files, DumpFl Studio uses the FFMPEG library to parse through any kind of video file. Once the text file is created, you can use the text file to carry out actions in any programming language. DumpFl Studio comes in a simple and free Windows executable that can be launched quickly and easily. With DumpFl Studio, the process of extracting video frames and timestamps is very easy and can be completed in just a few minutes. The FFMPEG library is a very powerful and widely used tool that comes with all sorts of functions. DumpFl Studio uses this library to extract the video frames and timestamps, so it must be installed first before you can use the application. Thanks to the FFMPEG library, DumpFl Studio is able to extract any video format and to pick any video size. You can, for example, extract short videos from longer ones and have the extracted frames at a smaller file size. Once the FFMPEG library is installed, you can launch DumpFl Studio with the executable. The application will detect all of the video formats that are supported by the FFMPEG library, as well as the time stamps that the software is looking for in the video file. You can select any video size and even choose whether or not you want to extract audio from the video file. Downloading DumpFl Studio To download DumpFl Studio, you will first need to open an internet browser, open the DumpFl Studio page and download the program. Once the program is downloaded, run the executable and the software will automatically launch. You will be asked to specify a video file, where DumpFl Studio will save the frames and timestamps. Once you have chosen the file to convert, DumpFl Studio will start to convert it into a text file that can be used in any programming language. The software will also create a copy of the original video file with the same name, but with the addition of the extension.txt. When the program is done extracting the time stamps and saving them as a text file, you can simply copy the text file to a location of your choice and keep it safe.
